

JUDAS

Joseph Habedank, Benji Cowart, Michael Farren

Was thirty pieces worth it?
When the truth is, I might've sold Him out for less
Can you see the way it hurt Him?
But it could've been me who hid behind that kiss of death
If I'm the judge of Judas, then woe is me
Turns out the only difference is that I believe

If He could love a traitor, a liar and a faker
If He could break the bread and share the wine
If the humble hearted Savior
Could wash the feet of His betrayer
Then surely He could love a heart like mine

What amazing mercy
How extravagant this overwhelming reach of grace
Though we are undeserving
He'll still meet the worst of sinners in their darkest place
And all I know to say is, "Thank you, Jesus"
And all I know to sing is, "Hallelujah!"

*So no matter who you are
No matter what you've done
Just take it from me
It'll never be bigger than His great love*